1:00 PM - 2nd Annual Lacy's Red Angus Bull & Female Sale

As the beef industry continues it's movement toward rebuilding America's cowherd "Red", it's with great excitement we welcome you to West Central Missouri & Lacy's Red Angus. In 2017, Red Angus continues to lead the revolution as cattlemen demand quality genetics with strong maternal & high carcass traits. There is no doubt, the Red Angus/Red Angus influenced females are the most sought after females in the beef industry today.

For those of you unfamiliar with our operation, our cattle are bred, born & raised right here on our ranch. We develop our bulls & females here as well, where they run on fescue pasture and are bunk fed daily. Doing so ensures that no animal is overfed & produces docile cattle that are easy to handle and ready to go to work for you. The cattle are all in great shape and the bulls have all undergone genomic testing (GGP-LD) which has been incorporated into their EPDs. Carcass ultrasound data has been collected as well. All the bulls have undergone a full Breeding Soundness Exam (BSE). The open heifers have all been subjected to a Reproductive Tract Score (RTS) as well as pelvic measurements. All of this data will be available prior to sale day.

In an effort to provide our customers with a marketing advantage in today's challenging feeder calf market, we've elected to become a "Top Dollar Angus Seedstock Partner". Top Dollar Angus has numerous buyers and feedlots that are willing to pay premium prices for high-end Red Angus feeder calves. As we move forward, top quality cattle with high-end carcass traits will bring the premium over average cattle. Regardless of the size of your operation, we encourage you to consider this program & explore how you can obtain premium prices for your quality feeder calves. As you browse through the catalog, you will find a large percentage of the bulls are "Top Dollar Angus" eligible & so noted by the Top Dollar Angus logo.

For those of you who participate in the Missouri Show Me Select or Sunflower Supreme Replacement Heifer Programs, note that a number of the bulls in our offering meet the requirements to be used for natural service. The eligible bulls are identified by the Missouri Show Me Select & Sunflower Supreme Logos.

This year we decided to throw in a little added attraction and offer a select group of commercial Red Angus females. This small group of heifers come from a long time Lacy's Red Angus bull customer, Robert & Gail Perryman.

Thank you for your interest in our operation. We are confident that we are offering you some of the highest quality cattle to sell anywhere in the country. You are welcome to view the offering anytime, whether it be at our ranch, on our website or on DV Auction. The sale videos will be available online in mid-October on our website as well as on DV Auction. We look forward to seeing you on sale day but if you are unable to attend, the sale will be broadcast live over the internet through DV Auction.

Regards,
Dan & Kelly Lacy

PROPER MANAGEMENT OF YEARLING BULLS

By Twig Marston - Extension Beef Specialist

Department of Animal Sciences and Industry
Kansas State University, Manhattan

INTRODUCTION

Yearling bulls represent a large commitment to beef operations. Besides their purchase price, they are the future genetic material of the herd that can influence several generations of stock. Because yearlings still have a significant amount of growth and development ahead of them, they require a higher level of care and management than their older counterparts. This is especially true now as yearling bulls can possess considerably more genetic potential for growth than their ancestors.

PREBREEDING SEASON MANAGEMENT

Nutritional Management

One of the most common complaints of yearling bull purchasers is the run down condition these bulls can exhibit after their first breeding season. This situation can be largely avoided with good bull management. Whether the bulls were developed on the ranch, in a commercial facility, or at a centralized bull test, they were probably fed to gain from 2.5 to 4.0 pounds per day from weaning to one year of age. After coming off of test, and until they are turned out with females, they should continue to gain around 2.0 pounds per day.

Dry matter intake, energy and protein requirements as well as diet formulation is provided as a management aid. Bulls grazing a grass paddock may need to receive 8 to 13 pounds of grain per day, similar to those on dry hay. Some will argue that bulls should not be pampered with grain supplements, but to insure a long and reproductive life, their basic nutrient requirements must be met. Quality of forage is extremely important to formulating proper bull diets. Many diet formulations can easily satisfy yearling bull maintenance and growth requirements. For example, some producers will allow bulls to graze cereal grain pastures with minimal supplementation, while others will have to feed a complete diet in a drylot situation.

Protein Requirement

After achieving their first birthday, bull's protein requirements settle to about 10% of their total diet, depending on their dry matter intake. Usually this requirement can be met by adding one pound of a protein supplement per day to the grain portion of the diet. If high quality forage (pasture or hay) is fed, the additional protein supplement may not be needed. Forage testing and balancing the diet will pinpoint supplemental needs.

Mineral Requirements

Calcium and phosphorus are major minerals. Diets that contain approximately .40% calcium and .20% phosphorus are sufficient to meet dietary goals. The ration between calcium and phosphorus should be maintained at 2:1 or greater. In addition, trace mineral requirements should be met. Research has shown that feeding zinc at 60 ppm of the diet is beneficial to male reproduction. Other trace minerals like copper, manganese, and selenium should be monitored. Many commercial sources of trace minerals are available, but if desired a mixture of 40% dicalcium phosphate, 20% limestone, 30% trace mineral salt and 10% Selenium 90 premix can be used.

Vitamin Requirement

Any diet that includes high-quality, green forages should provide enough vitamin A to meet the yearling bull's requirement. Vitamin A is inexpensive to feed, and therefore diet fortification near 30,000 IU per day would be cost effective. If forages are weathered and/or of low quality, an intramuscular injection of 3 million IU of vitamin A is advisable. Injectable vitamin A will maintain adequate liver stores for over 100 days.

BREEDING SEASON MANAGEMENT

Number of Females

Setting absolute guidelines for cow-to-bull ratio is difficult because there are several variables that have an impact on this number. Examples are a bull's age, size, condition, and sex drive. Environmental factors like: size of the breeding pastures, type of terrain, climate, and length of the breeding season can also affect the correct cow-to-bull ratio. Absolutely, a yearling bull will not be able to service as many cows as an older counterpart. As a rough guideline, however, the working range is approximately 10 to 25 females per yearling bull during a 45 to 60 day breeding season.

Length of Breeding Season

A maximum of 45 to 60 days is an ideal length of breeding season for yearling bulls. Ninety days is an absolute maximum. One method of saving wear and tear on a yearling is to turn him out after an older bull has been with the herd for the first one or two heat cycles. Some producers rotate bulls in and out of pastures to assure a lazy bull's mates can get covered by another. Regardless of the management style, it is not advantageous to run yearling bulls with cows for long periods of time. They will waste a considerable amount of energy chasing cows and losing body condition instead of building up reserves for the next breeding season.

Observation

Try to observe the yearling bull closely to make certain he is detecting heat and breeding cows. Also, keep an eye on his condition. If he is getting too thin and rundown, he needs a rest. Thin bulls are more apt to hurt themselves, become less fertile, and have increased nutritional needs after the breeding season. Yearling bulls should not be pastured mated to cows that are extremely larger than themselves. Physically, this height mismatch may cause injury and failure to mate properly.

AFTER THE FIRST BREEDING SEASON

Feeding

Yearling bulls will probably lose from 100 to 300 pounds during their first breeding season. In addition to gaining back this weight during their first rest, they must also gain enough body mass as to achieve 75% of their mature weight by their second birthday. For example, if a bull's potential mature weight is 2,000 pounds, he should weigh at least 1,500 pounds at two years. If he weighed 1,250 pounds at turn-out time as a yearling and lost 200 pounds during the breeding season, he would need to gain about 2.0 pounds per day during the nine months until his second birthday. In order to gain 2.0 pounds per day, coming 2-year-old bulls may need to be fed 13 pounds of grain, protein supplement, and a full-feeding of hay. High quality forages could be utilized to reduce the grain and supplement portions of the diet. A word of caution: do not try to bring a bull back too fast with too much grain because of risk of foundering him.

Health Management

In the fall, after the first breeding season, treat the bull for internal and external parasites. The following spring, when he is two-years old, deworm him again and give him annual booster vaccinations against the diseases listed earlier.

I was offered the chance to buy "Libby" from cooperators Ken & Laurie Zumwalt so I took advantage of it and did just that. She is made about as good as anyone could want.....Clean fronted, feminine, good muscle, good bone & strong along the top line. She's a direct daughter of Legacy & out of a Future Design 734T x Signatue cow. Everyday I think about putting her back in the replacement pen.

LACY'S RED ANGUS

THE GOAL AT LACY'S HAS ALWAYS BEEN TO FEED BULLS IN A SAFE MATTER THAT SHOWCASES GENETIC POTENTIAL WITHOUT COMPROMISING LONGEVITY.

FEEDING PROGRAMS

Weaning

Bulls and heifers were weaned on Purina Precon Complete for 21 days. A pelleted feed designed to get stressed calves on feed quickly and keep them healthy. Supplemental hay was given at this time and once calves were bawled out they were turned out on grass.

Development

Bulls were transitioned from Precon to a Purina Accuration Developer and corn mix. This mix was hand fed morning and night and bulls were gradually worked up to about 1.5% of body weight. They were out on a fescue and clover mix pasture for the duration of development and free choice Availa 4 mineral tubs were provided to enhance semen production.

Heifers were also fed Accuration Developer and corn but only 4#/hd/day was delivered to supplement grass.

WHY FEED CORN?

ARE WE CONCERNED ABOUT CORN?

No, and here's why.

The Accuration Developer provided intake modifying technology throughout development.

Intake Modifying Tech creates "snack eating" consumption habits. Meaning that bulls would consume grain in small 3-4# intervals throughout the day. This prevents the pH in the rumen from dropping and killing forage digesting microbes living there, which allows bulls to actually consume more forage between these small grain meals. This also makes the program very safe for these animals as bulls have a clear hierarchy. Intake Modifying Tech prevents more aggressive bulls from pushing others out and reduces the risk of them overconsuming grain.

We feel in using this technology we have found the balance between providing the energy the bulls need to meet their genetic potential while actually enhancing their forage utilization. Which is the type of environment they will need to thrive on to be an asset to any cattle operation.

We would still like to remind everyone that these are growing animals that will have high work demands at turnout.

Continued management and some supplementation may be needed. See our tips for maintaining these bulls in our handout.
